As a beginner Django developer, I have gained a foundational understanding of the Django framework and its components such as URL routing, models, views, templates, and forms. I am familiar with the Model-View-Template (MVT) architecture and have experience working with databases, managing migrations, and using Django's powerful built-in admin interface. Additionally, I have knowledge of HTML, CSS which enables me to create dynamic web applications with Django. With my passion for learning and eagerness to expand my skills, I am ready to tackle new challenges and make significant contributions to the development community.
